With this project we want to contribute to the topic of validation of non-formal learning, as this includes promoting innovative solutions to improve recognition of the validation of competences. It is related to Transparency and recognition of skills and qualifications and also Open education and innovative practices in a digital era - two aims of Erasmus + for this year.

We will use three topics to achieve that:
- IT tools and validation
- Civic engagement
- Cultural Heritage.

On European level, priority is given to supporting educational and training institutions to take up digital technologies as set out in the European Framework for Digitally Competent Educational, and the use of the SELFIE self-reflection tool for general education which we plan to use in our project.

Main objectives:
- Offer students the opportunity to directly experience the value of European cultural heritage;
- Support pupils in the acquisition and development of basic skills and key competences through the use of new technologies;
- Promote civic engagement and active citizenship;
- Promote the use of modern technology for the development of tools and the validation of learning outcomes in digital form (modules, blogs, e-portfolios for students).
