

HOW WOULD YOU DEFINE HUMAN RIGHTS USING YOUR WORDS?

1. Human rights are freedoms, privileges and all that belongs to men as human beings.
2. Human rights are in my opinion fundamental to live, so I would define them as essential.
3. Human Rights are the rights that must be granted to every person for the only reason of belonging to mankind.
4. I define human rights as the fundamental rights of man, such as the political, civil and social rights that every person has the right to exercise and which must be recognized for everyone regardless of their origins, their race, their religion. Each of us has rights, which do not belong to a single person but to everybody, therefore to every right of each correspond duties that respect the rights of others.
5. Human rights are those rights that every person must have, given the same gender, race and ethnicity, to be considered as such.
6. For me human rights are fundamental rights for each person (children, women, men)
7. They are fundamental rights in order not to create inequalities between people
8. For me, human rights are essential to live. It is right to know what they are, so that we can defend them.
9. In my opinion, human rights are those rights that man has for the simple fact of existing
10. Human rights are the rights of man as such.
11. In my opinion, human rights are all those rights that all human beings have and must defend. They don't have to be a privilege and, if they are respected by everyone, they allow us to get along well with each other and live in peaceful peace.
12. I would define human rights as all those rights that must be recognized to men regardless of their race, gender, age, social condition.
13. I would define human rights as the rights that are recognized for every member of the world population
14. Respect for the person are fundamental rights for coexistence
15. Human rights are actions or feelings that we have a right to have
16. These are things that allow us to all feel the same and that protect us from those who want to be superior to others. They help us to live in peace.
17. Human rights are all those rights that make a man free.
18. Human rights are a series of rules that each state provides, they serve for the protection of its citizens and are of various kinds, for example the right of expression, to vote of worship. Furthermore, human rights are different depending on the state. Men have always fought for the protection of the same rights, the opposition of rights and duties would be the rules that establish the behavior of all citizens.
19. Human rights are freedoms that must be guaranteed to everybody.
20. They are rights that absolutely should be guaranteed to everyone, therefore they are universal.
21. I would define human rights by saying that they belong to all people and should not be prohibited.
22. Human rights are what a man cannot do without.
23. Human rights are those rights that a man cannot do without.
24. For me, human rights are the freedom to live life with peace of mind without being judged or discriminated against.
